5513,"UPDATE 4: Does an unborn child feel pain? Everyone knows that at some point an unborn child feels pain. In the Bible the unborn child of one woman is reported to have been able to feel pain. In her case, it was reported when the unborn child was at 6 months. After a baby has been born they continue to be able to feel pain. The earliest a baby has been born and survived is around 21 weeks (5 months). This, of course, means that, if the baby had not been born, it would have been able to feel pain in the womb at 5 months. The above facts have been established but we are still studying this matter. However, one thing is clear, abortion may not be performed after the fetus has spent a certain period of time in the womb. Now, we judge pain in a person by their expression of pain, why should it be any different with a fetus? Unborn babies recoil away from the surgical instruments during the abortion procedure, which demonstrates that the nervous system is experiencing a physiological stress response. This is an expression of pain. Again, we judge pain in a person by their expression of pain. Why should it be any different with a fetus? Thus, the question becomes when do fetuses express pain, not merely feel pain. Current evidence is fetuses express pain at 8 weeks (2 months). THEREFORE, ABORTION MAY NOT BE PERFORMED AFTER 8 WEEKS (2 MONTHS). Finally, future research may show that abortion may not be performed after a shorter period of time or even ever. Also, the fight or flight response of fetuses at 8 weeks or earlier proves that God wants the fetus to be treated as alive at that time. ¶ CONCLUSION: Our current, official position on abortion will be found at ABORTION. However, we are now considering the fact that an unborn child does not experience or express pain until around the 8th week.", "2023-08-09 13:50:04"

Merriam-Webster defines gender identity as: a person's internal sense of being male, female, some combination of male and female, or neither male nor female. ¶ This definition says that gender identity is an internal sense. An internal sense is NOTHING BUT A FEELING. ¶ FEELING IS NOT FACT. FACTS ARE RELIABLE. We do not have a reliable frame of reference because there is no frame of reference because the Earth not only moves around the Sun but the solar system moves around the center of the Milky Way galaxy and the Milky Way galaxy moves in an upward direction. - There is a GAP between predictions.
- There is a HUGE gap between predictions
- Multiple predictions prove that there is NO REPETITIVE DEMONSTRATION OF LAWS OF PHYSICS underlying climate predictions. In plain English, there are so many forces at work that we cannot know what the result of the interaction of these forces will be. We cannot even know what the PROBABLE result will be. #### 7859,"SEXUAL BIRTH DEFECTS

There are many kinds of sexual birth defects but in the end everyone is either male or female. If they can have children, they are male or female. There has never been anyone who functioned REPRODUCTIVELY as both male and female. If they cannot have children, they are still either male or female. ¶ Gender may need to be determined by DNA testing. (Now, the rest of this article may confuse some of our readers. If so, they can jump to the conclusion at the end of the article.) In some cases a person may have an extra chromosome but they are still male or female. XXX is female. XXY is male. XYY is male. Any chromosomal combination of XX with one or more extra X chromosomes is female. Any chromosomal combination of XY with one or more extra Y chromosomes is male. There are no human beings with all Y chromosomes. (As a footnote, we add that we have read about XXXX, XXXXX, XYYY and XYYYY chromosomal combinations. Also, a person can have a "zY chromosome," which is part weak X and part strong Y. In this case, the Y part determines function and the person is male. [The chromosome pair is XX where one of the Xs is actually a zY chromosome.] There is also a "zX chromosome" which is part strong X and part weak Y. In this case, the X part determines function and the person is female. [The chromosome pair is XY where the Y is actually a zX chromosome.] Also, a person can have both XX and XY chromosomes in different parts of their body. In this case, nerve DNA is used since a nerve is effectively a part of the brain and the brain controls how the rest of the body functions including sexually. Also, one must be sure the DNA test is a Sigma DNA test, which tests for chromosome part strength, not a Delta DNA test, which does not test for chromosome part strength.) ¶ CONCLUSION: In simple terms, if there is no Y chromosome or strong Y chromosome part the person is female and if there is a Y chromosome or strong Y chromosome part the person is male.", "2023-09-09 14:24:49"

8088,"PROOF THERE IS NO GENDER IDENTITY

There are many kinds of sexual birth defects but in the end everyone is either male or female. If they can have children, they are male or female. There has never been anyone who functioned REPRODUCTIVELY as both male and female. If they cannot have children, they are still either male or female. ¶ Gender may need to be determined by DNA testing. (Now, the rest of this article may confuse some of our readers. If so, they can jump to the conclusion at the end of the article.) In some cases a person may have an extra chromosome but they are still male or female. XXX is female. XXY is male. XYY is male. Any chromosomal combination of XX with one or more extra X chromosomes is female. Any chromosomal combination of XY with one or more extra Y chromosomes is male.

There are no human beings with all Y chromosomes. (As a footnote, we add that we have read about XXXX, XXXXX, XYYY and XYYYY chromosomal combinations. Also, a person can have a "zY chromosome," which is part weak X and part strong Y. In this case, the Y part determines function and the person is male. [The chromosome pair is XX where one of the Xs is actually a zY chromosome.] There is also a "zX chromosome" which is part strong X and part weak Y. In this case, the X part determines function and the person is female. [The chromosome pair is XY where the Y is actually a zX chromosome.] Also, a person can have both XX and XY chromosomes in different parts of their body. In this case, nerve DNA is used since a nerve is effectively a part of the brain and the brain controls how the rest of the body functions including sexually. Also, one must be sure the DNA test is a Sigma DNA test, which tests for chromosome part strength, not a Delta DNA test, which does not test for chromosome part strength.) ¶ CONCLUSION: In simple terms, if there is no Y chromosome or strong Y chromosome part the person is female and if there is a Y chromosome or strong Y chromosome part the person is male.,"2023-09-12 15:57:21"

The League of Nations confirmed Britain's authority over the land of Israel in 1922. 11110, "UPDATE 2: Republicans support compassionate abortion. A compassionate abortion is performed before the embryo becomes a person and is performed to save the life of the mother and/or because of rape and/or incest. ¶ Note that in the Bible physical substance of Adam was created before the person of Adam. Embryo is created before the person. ¶ Note that in the Bible the brain of Adam was created before the person of Adam. The brain is created before the person. ¶ In order to become a person an embryo must begin to think or dream. In order to think or dream an embryo must have an active brain (and, therefore, must have a brain). All of this is proven by the fact that when a person is "brain dead," which includes no thinking and no dreaming, they are dead (no longer a person in this world) and an embryo without a brain is, IN EFFECT (NOT ACTUALLY), brain dead; that is, not a person. ¶ Finally, note that in the Bible an embryo became a person well before they were born (Luke 1: "...the sixth month with her...the babe leaped...for joy.").", "2023-11-08 07:54:12"

3. An embryo is not a person until they have a BRAIN (8 weeks).

4. An embryo is a person before their LUNGS are fully developed.

(In the Bible, in Luke Chapter 1, John the Baptist was a person at least by 24 weeks (6 months), before his lungs were fully developed at 36 weeks. We note also that 24 weeks is the accepted age of fetal viability.)
